Frederic Residents Injured in Crash

Two Frederic residents were injured on early Saturday, November 4, when the vehicle they were in left the roadway and hit a large tree.

Clarence Budd, 31, and his wife Helen Budd, 28, were transported to Mercy Hospital in Grayling. Clarence was later transferred to Munson Medical Center in Traverse City.

The accident occurred on Old 27 (north) near the sandhill curves at approximately 2:38 a.m. The accident call was received by the Crawford County Sheriff Dept.; however, a Grayling City officer responded first because the sheriff's cars were too far away.

Ambulances from Crawford County and Frederic responded and were aided by the Jaws of Life from the Frederic Fire Dept.

The police said improper use of seatbelts was a contributing factor in the victims' injuries. The accident remains under investigation.

$10,000 in Equipment Stolen from Store

Inventory valued at approximately $10,000 was stolen from Grayling Power Equipment last Tuesday, October 31.

Tony Latuszek, owner, stated that nine Stihl chain saws, three Toro snow blowers, three Jonsered chain saws, two Toro generators and five Lawn Boy lawn mowers were among the stolen items. He stated that entry was made by breaking the lock on the service door and forcing the jam.

Latuszek reported the robbery at about 7:55 a.m. on Tuesday when he came to work. He estimated the robbery took place sometime between 11 p.m. and 7 a.m. because the Assembly of God Church, which is located next door to his business, had a meeting on Monday night that lasted until about 11 p.m.

The theft is under investigation by the Crawford County Sheriff Dept.

Buck Pole Starts Opening Day Here

The Orangecoat Roundup's Buck Pole Contest will again be offering prizes to hunters who bag the best bucks during the first two days of deer season.

The Buck Pole will be located at Skip's Sport Shop, one-quarter mile west of Grayling on M-72 West. The contest will begin at daybreak on Wednesday, November 15 and continue through Thursday, November 16.

To enter the contest, hunters will need to purchase a $2 Orangecoat Roundup '89 pin.

Prizes will include $50 U.S. Savings Bonds for the first buck on the pole, $50 bonds for the first 10 bucks on the pole, the first woman to hang her buck, the heaviest buck and the youngest hunter. These prizes will be offered each day of the two day contest.

A wooden carved deer by Bill Burrick will also be awarded each day for the smallest buck taken.

The grand prize of a hunting rifle and scope will be awarded to the hunter whose buck has the largest rack over the two day contest.

Veterans Day Ceremony Moved

The annual Veterans Day ceremony held at the Grayling State bank in recent years will be moved to the Copper Kettle along I-75 Business Loop this year.

The ceremony will be from 10:30 to 11 a.m. on Saturday, November 11. Col. Hogan and Jack Alef have organized the ceremony.

No Overtime Could Cut Sheriff Patrols

A no-overtime decision by county commissioners could leave the sheriff department without patrols at night.

Sheriff Harold Hatfield and Undersheriff Tom Coors met with Crawford County Commissioners on Thursday, October 26, and asked them to clarify how their department was supposed to abide by the commission's "no overtime ruling", which took effect on October 10, comply with the minimum staffing clause in the current union agreement, and still provide adequate services to the residents of the county.

"When I read the minutes of the last commissioner's meeting about the overtime ruling all of a sudden I could see the department with no road patrol after dark," Hatfield stated. "That is fine, if that is the commission's decision, but I think we need to notify the state police, other authorities and the citizens of Crawford County that there will not be a county officer to answer their call and that they may possibly have to wait hours for a response from the state police."

He said his primary concern regarding the overtime ruling was for the individual county resident, who calls for help, maybe for the first time during a lifetime of paying local taxes, and the sheriff department had to tell him that we cannot send help because they do not have a road officer on duty on that particular night.

"The only help we will be able to offer," he said, "are the telephone numbers for either the Houghton Lake or Gaylord State Police posts."

STATE POLICE COVERAGE?

Hatfield cautioned the commissioners against relying on the state police as an adequate substitute for county road patrol because of the large areas their officers cover. The State Police from the Houghton Lake Post cover portions of Roscommon, Crawford, Missaukee and Clare counties. The Gaylord Post covers Otsego County and portions of Crawford, Antrim and Montmorency counties. During the "after dark hours" the Houghton Lake Post has one car on the road manned by two officers. The Gaylord Post mans at least one patrol car with two officers. Neither post will operate a patrol car after dark with only one officer. If only one officer reports for duty, which according to spokesmen at both posts happens occasionally, and no one is available for overtime, they do not have a patrol car on the road.

Hatfield told commissioners that his department had to comply with the terms of the old employee contract until the new agreement is signed, and that the old contract contains a minimum staffing clause that stipulates that no less than two officers (one to a vehicle) will patrol after the hours of darkness from May 1 to December 1.

"If I order an officer to work alone because of the commission's overtime ruling, and he refuses," said Hatfield, "I am going to have to suspend him or discipline him for not obeying an order. In turn," the Sheriff continued, "the officer is going to grieve the disciplinary action, and because of the terms of the existing contract, I do not see how I can win the grievance."

The shortage of a road officer can also occur when a dispatcher or correction officer reports that he will not be in, and a road officer is pulled from road patrol to work one or the other vacant positions which must be filled.

"We are central dispatch," said Hatfield. "All the emergency calls: police, ambulance and fire departments in the county and city come through this office. I have to have a dispatcher at all times," Hatfield said that the corrections department is also mandated by state corrections regulations to have an officer on duty to take care of the county prisoners.

SOME OF AUTHORIZED

In an effort to ease the problems caused by reducing overtime as suggested by Hatfield, the commissioners voted unanimously to reinstate overtime for weekends (Friday and Saturday), the first week of hunting season and holidays in addition to emergency situations until January 1, 1990.

Coors said that the approved overtime would help the law enforcement situation for county residents, but added that the first night between now and December 1 that he does not fill an after dark shift with the minimum staffing provided in the existing contract his department will be slapped with a class action suit.

Commissioner Jeanette Kitchen, chairperson of the finance committee, explained that the commission was trying to control spending in order to avoid a budget deficient situation.

"Crawford County has a large senior citizen population and the idea that there is no one available at night to answer a call is frightening," said Kitchen. For this reason, Kitchen said it is important that all departments within the county work together during the next two months to insure that the county's police protection continues.

BARE BONES STAFF

In a later interview with Lt. Kirk Wakefield, of the Crawford County Sheriff Department's Command Officers Association, Wakefield stated that the county cannot "knock the overtime out and not replace officers" for the after dark shift between May 1 and December 1, because their contract is still binding. Wakefield explained that overtime is not the goal of the of-

Statewide results on the proposals were not available at press time for the Avalanche.

Probate Court Saves $40,764 In County Child Care Funds

The Probate Court has saved county taxpayers nearly $41,000 during the first eight months of 1989 compared to last year's budget.

Probate Judge John Hunter reported the 40 percent savings to Crawford County Commissioners at their October 26th meeting. He credited the spending reductions to the use of funding sources other than county money and his philosophy of keeping juvenile delinquents with the nuclear family and out of long term residential care facilities unless there is no other alternative.

In 1988, Hunter said $104,811.97 was spent from the county's Child Care fund. Through the first eight months of 1989, his staff has trimmed $40,764.86 from that amount.

"A good deal of the credit for the Probate savings is due to Tom Haskel (juvenile officer)," Hunter said. "The county is fortunate to have Tom as an employee of the court."

Hunter said his staff discovered that other sources of funding, mainly through the State of Michigan, had been coded incorrectly and in cases where total funding was available through the state, the county was paying half.

"When the county places a juvenile delinquent in a facility such as Eagle Village, which is a long term care facility," Hunter explained, "it can cost the county as much as $150 per day. Multiply this times 365 days," he said, "and it becomes costly to the county." Hunter said if proper funding sources are sought at the outset, his staff has found that in most cases there is some type of eligibility for funding.

"If not full funding," he said, "it is at least a dollar for dollar proposition."

The Probate Court's policy of not looking at residential care placement as its first option serves the best interest of the county, said Hunter. Instead, he said he prefers to use detention in a locked cell for three days for second-time offenders, and some first time offenders based on the offense.

"I tell the juvenile 'this is not the first time you have been in this court'," Hunter stated. "I want you to get the message about what you are doing and that each time we have to deal with you, we are going to increase the detention time."

Hunter said the three days are great for shock value and it gives them time to think about where their lives are going.

The nearest juvenile detention center with a lock-up facility is in Macomb and Bay Counties. Detention expenses are billed to the juvenile's parents, at a reasonable rate.

"From a fiscal point of view this is wonderful because it precludes the necessity of looking automatically for long term placement that can cost from $30,000 to $50,000 a year per delinquent," said Hunter.

Hunter said his office's primary responsibility is always for the best interest of the children in the county, but if within the context of this "best interest" policy they can trim costs from the budget, they will.

"From an administrator's standpoint," he said, "I'm charged with the responsibility of spending public dollars and I take that responsibility very seriously."

At the present time, Crawford County has only one juvenile in a residential care facility.

In addition to these cost cutting measures the Probate Court has increased its collection of attorney fees and court costs from $320 in 1988 to $1,957 so far in 1989.

"We have no reason to believe that our financial needs for the Child Care fund will be any different in the coming months," said Hunter, "however, I cannot guarantee this. Should a violent situation arise where placement in a residential care facility becomes the only alternative and state funding is not available I will use county funds if I have to." Hunter continued, "but that certainly is not our intent, and not the desired approach of my office."

"I can't give the money saved to you in cash," said Hunter, "but I give it back to you as you gave it to me... on paper."

HUNTING CASUALTY - It appears that this Crawford County wild turkey just missed being on someone's Thanksgiving platter. Even though the shaft of an arrow has gone completely through its breast, the bird does not appear to be bothered by the arrow's presence. In the photo above, the arrow is sticking out toward the tree.

Sullivan Family Thanks Grayling for Caring

Dear Jon,
We would like to take this opportunity to thank everyone who helped make the class of '84's homecoming reunion dance benefit for John a terrific success!

Special thanks to the planning committee which consisted of Susan and Frank Bateson, Bob and Rachel Fenton, Joe LaGrow, Nancy and Dave Niederer, Jan and Jon Cragg (and Jackie for the flowers!), Linda Welch, Terry SanCarter, Jim Failing, and also to Clara Sorenson and the members of the class of 84 and their families. They all spent a great deal of time and effort to make everything perfect. Mr. Kumpula would certainly be proud of the way we worked together after 25 years!

Also, a special thank you to Dr. Dennis Paulson and the wonderful congregation of Michelson Memorial United Methodist Church. They took up a special collection for John on Sunday, October 8th.

Many thanks to all of you who attended and to those who were unable to attend but sent donations. It is nice to know so many people care!

It means so much to know we have you for friends. We can't imagine how lonesome life would be without our friends. The richness of life depends mostly on the things we share with our family and friends. We are always happy when a new friend enters our lives, but old friends are always the best friends!

It was a wonderful weekend for all of us. There just wasn't enough time to visit and catch up on the last twenty-five years. Even though we have all changed (just a little bit!) and seldom see each other, our love for each other has grown. We are truly thankful that you are our friends!

Thank you all so much for caring!
Marla, Dick, John, Kirsten, Matthew, and Ryan Sullivan

Schools, Community Work Together for Kids

Dear Mr. Thompson,
I would like to write to you to commend two individuals and businesses in Grayling whose outstanding support of Crawford-AuSable Schools deserves public recognition. Rick Mead of Golden Rule Printing and Jim Adams of Adams Photography have taken time and donated materials that have made it possible to equip the middle school darkroom and train students to develop and print their own film for the middle school journalism program. For this, my students and I are deeply grateful.

Rick Mead has donated the printing of an entire year's worth of colored name plates for the middle school's VIKING PRESS. He has sold chemistry and paper to the journalism program at his cost to stock the darkroom. He also donated a variety of darkroom equipment. When I asked for a bill for these materials and services, he refused, saying that he felt he owed the community some public service, that anything he could "do for kids", he was glad to do.

Jim Adams donated four afternoons of his professional time to instruct journalism students in developing and printing film for the school newspaper. Before he came in to teach the students, he collected darkroom materials from his own studio and Golden Rule, and got the darkroom equipped and ready to use. He donated equipment and materials as well as "fine tuned" what was already there.

Thanks to these two men, Grayling Middle School now has a professional darkroom available for the journalism program and other classrooms at the school that need the equipment. This is a heartwarming example of school and community working together for the good of "the kids". It makes me feel good about teaching here.

Look Closely, It Could Be GPA

To the Editor:

The Grayling Promotional Association would like to thank Gerald Worden for the kind words concerning the fall decorations around town.

For any other persons who are wondering - it is GPA and its members who are responsible for the ghosts, the couples on the park benches and many other fall decorations around town.

Whenever there's something going on that will benefit Grayling, you can be sure that GPA is either involved or has contributed toward the project. GPA made a financial commitment to the Historical Museum and also has a room on the second floor depicting a turn-of-the-century Dressmaker's Shop. GPA has made a $1500 financial commitment to the Grayling Chamber of Commerce to be paid over the next three (3) years.

About four years ago GPA started decorating the town when they cooperated with Jack Alef and the Grayling State Bank in promoting "Thank You Grayling Day", by putting signs in participating stores. The idea has grown until this year some 32 business places participated in some manner.

Then GPA took on the fall decoration promotion and following that the "Celebration of Lights" - where we encourage all business places to put up the white lights for the holiday season - and of course Santa's arrival in Grayling the day after Thanksgiving.

This year we hope even more business places will cooperate and turn on their "little white lights" at 6:30 p.m. on November 24th - just in time for Santa's arrival at the Crawford County Courthouse. Wouldn't it be beautiful if each and every store, both in downtown Grayling and spreading north, south, east and west was decorated in "little white lights"? That's our goal!

GPA also participates in the Winter Carnival Parade, and is the sole sponsor of the Milltown Parade.

The next time you wonder "who's doing that project" - look closely - it could be GPA.

Let's Talk About It

By Joe Murphy

Haven't we had some beautiful Indian Summer weather this fall? Here it is almost the first of November and some days we have been having almost summer like temperatures. Those warm October afternoons are my favorite time of year. The fall colors with all their beauty makes one feel close to nature and the seasons of the year.

We know that soon the snow will be falling, but for these few fleeting days we live within a world rich in beauty and color. The air of the autumn woods has all the tang and taste of fine wine. We should take the time to enjoy these few days to the fullest so our hearts can face the winter storms feeling a little lighter. If you can, get out and feast your eyes and nose on the wonder of autumn.

If there is anything that rankles me, it is the manner in which the advertisers of the recreational vehicles, and now even some pick up trucks, show them being operated in a very unsafe manner. Perhaps the skilled and trained drivers they employ to make the ads can go flying up over hills and be air born without killing themselves, but what about the youngster who decides that it is the way they should be operated. Every year the motorized O.R.V.'s take a terrible toll of our youth who try to duplicate the feats they see preformed on television. I feel they should be responsible enough to show their products being operated in a safe and sane manner.

I wish to extend my heartiest congratulations to Colonel David B. Hanson up on his retirement after serving our state and nation for over thirty-seven years. As a young man just out of high school he began the career that has led to his retirement as a full Colonel. Skip, as he was better known to his many friends, is a man born and raised in this area and a product of our schools. Showing once again that our youth are equipped to compete in any field of endeavor they may choose. Skip's hard work and bright mind won him the respect and rank he enjoys today. Colonel, I along wish your multitude of friends with you a long and happy retirement.

Notes from the Woods

By Nancy Lemmen
Avalanche Columnist

I wrote my first obituary this week. Nothing to it. I made certain to include all the Who's, the What's, the When's, and the Where's. The Why's I left out. As for the cause of death, anyone who needed to know, already did. For anyone else, it wouldn't matter.

I wrote it well, I think. I chose my words carefully, checked the dates and facts with the survivors, punctuated accurately and avoided fragments and run-on sentences. What I wrote was easy. What was difficult was what went unwritten.

I didn't include, for example, any family stories about the man as a child. Nothing about the nine-year-old who sold newspapers to contribute his small share to the family's coffers during the Great Depression of the 1930's.

Nor anything of the teenage son who washed dishes in downtown hamburger joints night after night while other teenagers were home studying for school or hanging out with friends. No reminder of the mangle iron he bought for his mother with his meager savings. The iron has since disappeared, but his son remembers ironing his shirts with it as a teenager.

Only a brief word was said in reference to the young woman with whom he fell in love. A woman who loved him so much that she left her family in Michigan and took the train to California in 1943 to marry the young sailor on a Christmas Eve in the midst of a great war.

Scant mention was made of his World War II Navy record. Nothing about the fact that he was shipped out right after his modest wedding. Nor anything about the reality of living day after day, week after week, month after month, on a destroyer escort in the South Pacific, with only the most occasional letter from home and family.

No indication if he worried whether his ship would make it safely back to the States, so he could meet the infant son born while the father served his country. Nor any word of how the man felt when he finally came home to his wife and the baby, by then five months old.

Only the briefest mention of his second child, a daughter, and of her children, his granddaughters. Omitted was his voiced concern after his initial heart attack 15 years ago, that he would not live long enough to be remembered by his grandchildren. Anyone who saw the sad young woman at his funeral knows that he worried for naught. The magnificent doll house he made the oldest grandchild is put away now, but she'll never forget the hours they spent sprawled on the floor together, playing house with her assortment of "little people."

There was nothing mentioned about his other projects: the set of bookshelves for his wife, the wooden toy chest for his son, the folding screen for his daughter. Nothing about his fishing rods and reels, now lying unused. Nor anything about his Civil War book collection, still lining the bookcase walls.

Nor mentioned was his long list of talents. He once painted signs for a living, for example, and his printing and calligraphy projects are still in evidence on tackle boxes, wooden fishing nets, the old row boat.

Omitted was reference to the day when his hands shook so much that he could no longer paint and letter for the family. With each new health crisis, he weakened a bit more and was forced to give up additional activities.

But he never complained. Not once. Not about being forced to retire early. Not about the numerous trips to doctors' offices and hospitals. Not about the seemingly infinite number of daily medications he took. Not about the list of foods forbidden to him. Not about his shortened life expectancy. Not about the ever present threat of another, fatal heart attack.

No indeed. He told his son on the night before one of his several surgeries that if he didn't make it through, not to grieve for him, as he had lived a satisfying life.

In the days after his death, his son read the following poem. It was by contemporary American writer Raymond Carver, whose collection of poetry, "A New Path to the Waterfall," was written after he was diagnosed as having terminal cancer. "It could have been written for Dad," he said:

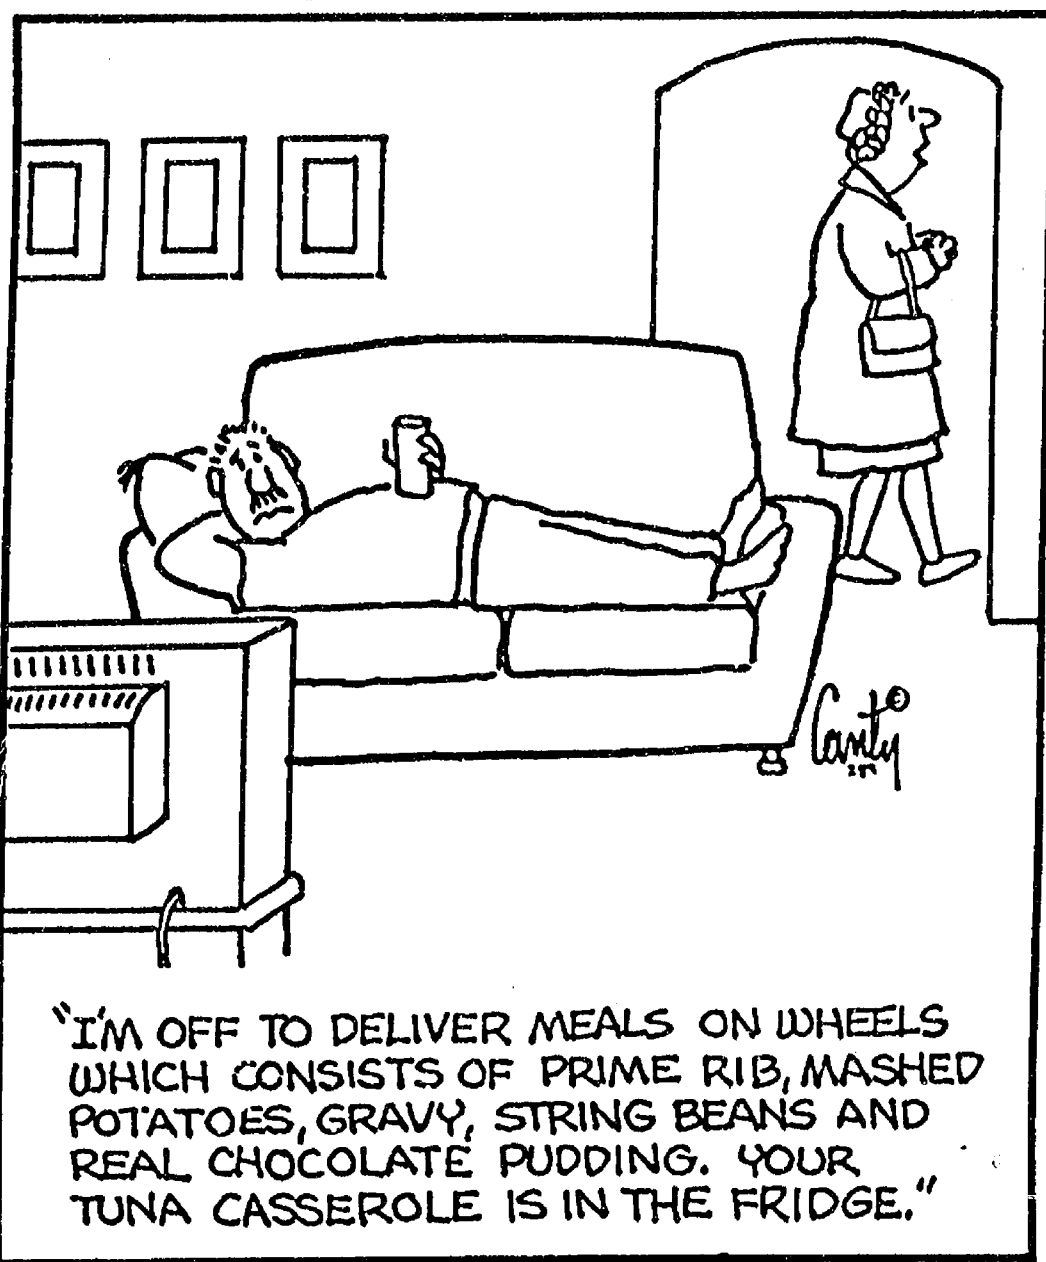

Late Fragment

And did you get what you wanted from this life, even so? I did.
And what did you want?
To call myself beloved, to feel myself beloved on the earth.

Truly he was beloved on earth. But that was not included in the obituary, either.

I suspect that there will be more obituaries to write. And for each one I will try to remember that, important though they are, what is really important is what does not get written - the memories that live on in the minds of family and friends. Those bittersweet, yet satisfying, images of honorable people which will continue to touch our hearts, strengthen our spirits, ennoble our souls.

Avalanche President

How about a face on Fujiyama?

I SEE BY THE papers that Ronald and Nancy Reagan picked up a cool $2 million for spending eight days in Japan on behalf of the Japanese conglomerate Fujisankel Communications.

The former president and his lady were to give television interviews, make speeches, shake hands and generally promote their sponsor.

In my opinion, this is outrageous misuse of the presidency. Along with many other Americans, I am appalled.

It's not as if the Reagan's are starving. They do quite well, giving speeches when they care to do so at $50,000 a pop. And Mrs. Reagan has a best-selling book making the rounds, filled with her impressions of eight years living at taxpayers expense in the mansion at 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

And, of course, as former president, Mr. Reagan gets a pay check and an office and staff and other tax-supported goodies now that he's out of office ... not to mention his pension from service as California governor.

The Japanese venture is simply too much. Disregarding its possible effect on his country's foreign policy, Mr. Reagan should display more respect for the office he once held. The Reagans owe the people at least that much.

Shortly after Mr. Reagan left office, some of his more avid admirers suggested that America add the Reagan face to Mt. Rushmore, the national shrine in South Dakota which now honors past Presidents Washington, Jefferson, Teddy Roosevelt, and Lincoln.

Maybe they should switch their sights, and sites. Mr. Reagan's visage on Japan's Mt. Fujiyama may be more appropriate ... and more likely.

I SEE BY THE PAPERS that backers of Proposal A on the November ballot have been charged with false advertising.

Proposal A would increase the state sales tax by a half-cent, with proceeds designed to aid local education. Gov. Blanchard is a strong supporter of the idea.

The opponents, led by Republican firehorse Brooks Paterson of Oakland County, sought an injunction to halt certain advertising as misleading. They won a brief stoppage, but the ads are running again.

As far as I can tell, the ads certainly are misleading. The television spots claim that adoption of Proposal A would "guarantee" that such things as more math teaching and computers would be added to classrooms across the state.

I went back and read the proposal again. It doesn't say anything like that.

As far as I can tell, all Proposal A "guarantees" is that your sales tax will go up from four cents to 4½ cents on the dollar.

Everything else depends on how the programs are handled at the state and local levels - which, history tells us, "guarantees" nothing at all.

The ads should be stopped.

I SEE BY THE PAPERS that someone called Zsa Zsa Gabor is in trouble with the law.

How could anyone who even picks up a newspaper anywhere in the country not see something about the Gabor lawsuit.

In my view, Zsa Zsa's plight has been the most overrated and overplayed item to turn up on a police docket and on America's front pages and the evening newscasts since the invention of movable type ... and that's been a long time.

The whole thing has been a non-event about a non-celebrity and deserves non-attention.

And I have just ignored my own advice.

NUTS AND JOLTS - Some column closing "Nuts and Jolts from Hod Shewell:

-- How come the loudest applause comes when the speaker sits down?

-- The modern definition of "scalping" is the price of a haircut.

-- Horse sense is what keeps horses from betting on people.

Sheriff Patrols

Officers, but rather the result of working with a bare bones staff that automatically results in overtime whenever, because of an emergency a shift is called in early, someone calls in sick, goes on vacation, takes a personal business day, has to appear in court, attends training school, is injured and on workman's compensation or any other circumstance that takes them away from their normal work assignment. Wakefield said he believes that in addition to the present staff, three road officers, two corrections officers and two fulltime dispatchers are needed to adequately staff the department.

Wakefield said the problem with using overtime as a means to fill in for absent staff is that at the end of a busy year, in addition to the high overtime costs to the department, the department has several burned-out officers. "Overtime doesn't involve a couple of hours," Wakefield explained, "it usually means another full eight hour shift."

Hatfield stated that 99 percent of all overtime in his department is mandated by emergency situations, union contracts and state regulations. The other one percent involves training programs, such as the D.A.R.E. drug prevention program and Jr. Deputy program which he feels is beneficial to the community.

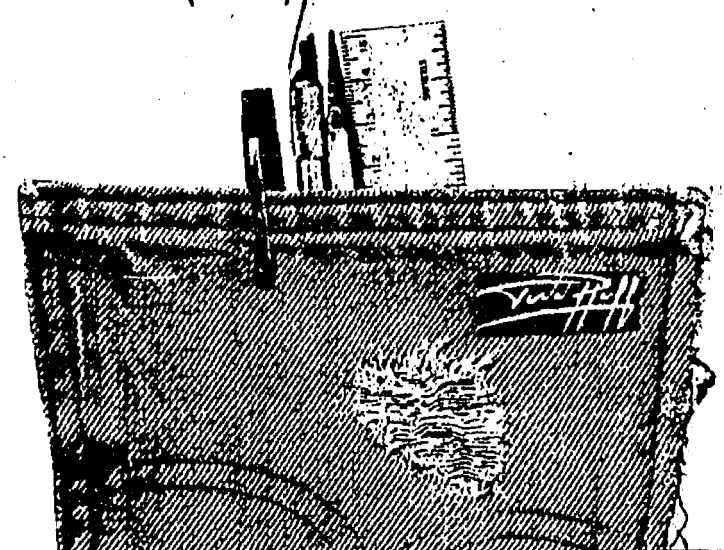

EXPLOSIVE SITUATION

"Not filling night road patrols because of financial cutbacks is a potentially explosive situation," said Wakefield. "We are considering the well-being, protection and safety of the citizens of this county. If the county has a problem with money then I sympathize with them," he said. "It is not my job to manage the county's finances. My job is to protect the citizens of this county and enforce the laws the best way I can."

Wakefield said in most cases, when an ambulance is summoned to a residence because of an emergency, it is the road officer who arrives first and when necessary initiates CPR until the ambulance crew can take over.

"It is my personal opinion, as administrator of this department," said Hatfield, "that if an officer is afraid for his life or personal well-being while working alone that I understand, but if he refuses to work alone because of union principles, then I have questions about that."

"More police officers die while trying to break up civil disputes than any other class of crimes," said Wakefield. "An officer going into a civil dispute at a home with two possibly intoxicated persons, the chances of him getting hurt are extremely high. The chances of the officer hurting them to stop them from hurting him are also extremely high. On the other hand," he said, "just the presence of two officers might defray the situation because there is safety in numbers." Wakefield said civil disputes occur in Crawford County on a daily basis.

NO RESERVE FUND

County Treasurer, Joe Wakeley, explained that the reason for budget concerns this year, more so than in past years, is due to the lack of financial reserves to draw from to cover the county's excess expenditures. Last year the county transferred about $150,000 from one reserve source to the general fund to cover its excess spending. This year, no such reserve fund exists.

"For that reason," Wakeley said, "the Ways and Means Committee reviewed the budget a few weeks ago and said 'we still have three months to go, let's be careful so that we don't wind up in a deficient situation.'" It was from this meeting that the Ways and Means Committee recommended to the full commission to restrict all overtime except for emergencies, and halt all supplies spending without authorization from the commission board.

Halloween Party Called Success

Hanson Hills on Halloween Night was the location for this year's "Fright Night" Party, with over 50 children in attendance.

Over 24 scarey pumpkins welcomed the kids into the witches' cauldren, better known as the warming room at the hills. Treated to free cider and doughnuts, the kids were entertained with a sawdust money pit, a "Close Shave" and bobbing for apples. Ten dollar certificates were awarded to the most original costumes in 4 different age groups. Candy and food certificates from McDonalds and Har-dees were also passed out to all participants.

Goodales Bakery provided the doughnuts and Jean Callewert and Tom Haskel judged the costumes, and Hanson Hills provided the location.

Upset Bid on Gaylord Falls Point Short

Grayling came within two points of upsetting the league's first place team, last Friday, October 27, by using a modified freeze to slow the tempo of the game down and confuse the Gaylord team. Unfortunately, for Grayling, close only counts in horseshoes, and Gaylord's 35 points was one better than Grayling's 34 points.

Varsity Coach Howard Lehti said Grayling went into the game knowing that Gaylord had four scorers on its team that consistently scored about 67 points a game compared to Grayling's 54 points. He said Grayling knew Gaylord liked to shoot the ball and to give the Vikings a chance to win. Lehti said Grayling had played a much slower game. The "modified freeze", was his coaching staff's strategy and it held the Gaylord Blue Devils to only 35 points.

"We had the ball with 25 seconds to go and took the last shot," he said. "Had the shot fallen, we would have won. If I had it to do over again," he said, "I would play the game the same way."

Michelle Burcham was high scorer with 13 points, 4 rebounds and 1 assist. Nikki Morrill was next with 10 points, 3 rebounds and 1 assist; Heather Stephenson 9, 3 rebounds and 5 assists; Nikki Trenary 2, 1 rebound and 2 assists; Melanie Ojala 2 rebounds and 2 assists; and Janet Bickford 3 assists.

Grayling is the number one team in the league in defense holding teams to an average 48.4 points per game, said Lehti.

Grayling's two losses last week dropped the Vikings from second place in the conference to a tie for third place with Cheboygan behind first place Gaylord and Sault Ste. Marie.

On Tuesday night Grayling drove across the Mackinac Bridge and fell prey to the St. Ignace Jinx losing 57-52.

"Last Tuesday night was one of those games coaches hope never happen," said Lehti. "We shot only 25 percent from the floor, terrible shooting from everybody, and the rebounding effort was also lacking."

"St. Ignace was fired up and had the confidence that they were going to defeat us on their home floor," said Lehti, "and they did a whole of a job."

Lehti said as bad as Grayling played, they still had an opportunity to win.

At halftime, St. Ignace was only one point ahead, 33-32, and at the end of the third quarter Grayling only trailed by one point, 46-45.

With 60 seconds to go Grayling was only five points behind with the capability of making two three point shots. It didn't happen for the Vikings this night, however.

Michelle Burcham led her team with 12 points, 7 rebounds and 1 assist. Heather Stephenson followed with 11 points, 7 rebounds and 5 assists; Nikki Morrill 11, 5 rebounds; Nikki Trenary 7, 10 rebounds and 3 assists; Claudine Allen 6 and 1 rebound; Janet Bickford 3 and 3 rebounds.

Grayling played their last home game against Petoskey on Tuesday, and will be traveling to Cheboygan on Thursday for the last game of regulation play.

Grayling opens district play Monday, Nov. 13, against Tawas at Tawas.

J.V. Girls Lose Twice

Kim Labo grabbed a game-high 17 rebounds but Grayling still got beat by St. Ignace 65-24 last Tuesday. Elissa Cox led the team with 7 points, Andrea Austin Scored 6, Brenda Moshier 5, Kris Welch 2, Labo 2, Cindy Fedewa and Kendra Wert each scored one point.

Brenda Moshier scored 9 points to lead the team against Gaylord in a losing cause 49-33. Moshier and Labo each had 12 rebounds to lead the team.

Labo scored 6 points, Kristie Lamie 5, Austin 4, Cox 4, Welch 3, and Fedewa 2. Austin also had 9 rebounds.

Coach Dallas Hudson said Labo and Moshier had excellent games against St. Ignace and Gaylord and Lamie and Austin played well against Gaylord.

Cub, Boy Scout To Collect Food For Hungry

As a member of the community, you hear about Boy Scouts and how they pledge the ideals of service to others and the community. And frequently you will see Scouts practicing these ideals in individual and unit service projects and good turns.

On November 11 and 18, the Boy Scouts of America's National Council is coordinating a very special national good turn called "Scouting for Food". The latest studies show that more than 20 million Americans including 4 million children go hungry at some time each month.

There are more hungry people in America now than at any time in the last 25 years.

Throughout the nation on November 11, youth and adult volunteers from the Boy Scouts of America will distribute collection bags door to door. Then, on the following Saturday, November 18, the Scouts will collect their bags packed with non-perishable food.

Emphasis is on food needed for nutrition such as peanut butter, complete packaged meals, and canned goods, especially tuna, chunky soups, stews, meats, fruits and vegetables.

Locally, the Scouting for Food Good Turn will be done by Boy Scout Troop 979 and Cub Scout Pack 3993 of Grayling. Scouts and adult volunteers will be on the streets by 9 a.m.

Saturday, November 11, to distribute the collection bags. Then the Scouts will be on the streets again the following Saturday to collect the bags with the food in them. The Boy Scouts will be easily recognized as they will be in uniform on both days of the campaign.

Food collected by the local Boy Scouts will then be turned over to the Michelson Memorial United Methodist and St. Mary's Food pantry. The food is then made available to those in need.

For more information on the Scouting for Food Good Turn, contact Scoutmaster Loren Goodale III at 348-9414.

The Bible Speaks

The Gospel of John Part #103

Religious Injustice
The trial of our Lord Jesus Christ by the religious leaders of Israel manifests the highest form of religious injustice on record. First, He was arrested without a formal indictment. His arrest resulted from the labor of a traitor and close comrad contrary to Lev. 19:16. His trial was at the wrong time. The Jewish Mishnah read, "Let a capital offense be tried during the day, but suspend it at night." (Sanhedrin 4, 1). He was taken before both Annas and Caiaphas at night before the Sanhedrin met. (John 18:24). He was interrogated by the highpriest contrary to Jewish law. "The high priest then asked Jesus of his disciples, and of his doctrine. Jesus answered him, I spake openly to the world; I ever taught in the synagogue, and in the temple, whither the Jews always resort; and in secret have I said nothing. Why askest thou me? ask them which heard me, what I have said unto them: behold, they know what I said." (John 18:20, 21)

Jesus simply challenged the Jewish court to follow established legal procedures. They could not try him without witnesses, yet they had none. "For many bare false witness against him, but their witness agreed not together." (Mark 14:56). In response to this challenge Jesus was physically abused. "And when he had thus spoken, one of the officers which stood by struck Jesus with the palm of his hand, saying, Answerest thou the high priest so? Jesus answered him, If I have spoken evil, bear witness of the evil: but if well, why smitest thou me?" (John 18:22, 23).

The Jewish court found Him guilty by his own testimony, a procedure illegal under Jewish law. "And the high priest answered and said unto him, I adjure thee by the living God, that thou tell us whether thou be the Christ, the Son of God." (Matt. 26:63). It was this challenge under divine oath to which Jesus Christ spoke truth and was declared guilty.

Among the many other injustices in the religious trial of Jesus Christ, the worst was the lack of defense, and failure of the court to examine His claims to be the Messiah. Was He born in Bethlehem to fulfill Micah 5:2? Was He born of a virgin to fulfill Isaiah 7:14? Was He born of the house of David to fulfill 2 Sam. 7:12, 16? Was He preceded by a forerunner like Elijah foretold in Malachi 3:1 (See Matthew 17:12, 18) Did He do the many works and miracles prophesied in Isaiah 61:1, 2? (See Luke 4:16-21). Was He a man of poverty and suffering, despised and rejected by men as prophesied in Isaiah 53:2, 3? Was He betrayed by a close friend and betrayed for 30 pieces of silver as prophesied in Psalm 41:9 and Zec. 11:12? Today millions of people are still rejecting the claims of Jesus Christ, what about you? (Hear "The Bible Speaks" at 12:15 p.m. Tuesday on WQON 100 FM).

CHURCH DIRECTORY

A BALANCED EDUCATION

Whether we agree or disagree with the Supreme Court's Prayer Decision, on one thing everybody can agree: If you want your children to have a balanced education then the religious aspects of the education must be provided in the church or synagogue and in the home.

How important is this balance? Certainly as important as the quality of education itself. There are dangers in providing a person with knowledge if you do not give them a sense of responsibility in the use of their knowledge. There can be tragedy when skills are acquired without conviction. Oppression and destruction have come upon mankind whenever discipline has been placed in the hands of those who cannot discipline themselves.

Religious education should begin in early childhood and should be fostered by earnest example in the home. Never has there been a day when the spiritual destiny of a nation rested so squarely on each family's decision.

Worship with your children this week!

FOOTBALL Contest

1st Place Wins $50 Each Week!

Ed Furstenau, of Roscommon, won this week's contest with 17 correct. The closest to him were Bob Gingerich, Walt Tilson, Marie St. Germain, Lennie Wargo, and Anthony Moses with 15 right.

Ed correctly picked Green Bay over Chicago and San Diego to upset Philadelphia. He also picked little St. Norbert to beat Michigan Tech.

Thirty seven people are still within 20 points of the leader Mike McNamara in the overall contest. Mike has led since week 3. Here are the leaders with six weeks to go: Mike McNamara 132, Marie St. Germain 128, Art Thayer 128, Mick McNamara 127, Gary Derenzy 127 and Heidi Mead 125.

For all you superstitious players, we're planning a little surprise for you on week 13 of the contest. We'll drop a few more reminders to you before that week, so you won't be taken completely off guard.

Don't forget to sign your entry form and use the Avalanche entry form only.

SPORTS FANS!

I Bet You Didn't Know

Brought To You
By Laurie Scheer-Alton

One of the most amazing group of players in history were the freshmen football players at Stanford University in 1932. They vowed that when they became sophomores, juniors and seniors, they would win the conference title and go to the Rose Bowl each year. They were nicknamed the "Vow Boys" and they kept their vow. The Stanford teams of 1933, 1934 and 1935 did win the right to play in the Rose Bowl game 3 straight years, led by the "Vow Boys".

Who is the only U.S. President ever to have played in a post-season college football bowl game? Answer is Gerald Ford who played in the East-West Shrine game in San Francisco on Jan. 1, 1935. Ford had been a starting center at the University of Michigan.

Here's an unusual oddity about the Pistons of the National Basketball Association. One year, they picked a referee to be their head coach. The 1954-55 Pistons selected NBA referee Charley Eckman as their new head coach even though he had never been a coach anywhere before that and the amazing thing is the Pistons finished in first place that season!

I bet you didn't know to see Laurie Scheer-Alton for a great deal on your new car or truck.

Doodles from the Tall Timber

By Wendell L. Hoover
Hartwick Pines Interpreter

It has been a busy fall, considering the number of school groups that have visited the park for guided tours. These groups have come from as far south as Kalamazoo to Charlevoix on the north and from Essexville to Gaylord and East Jordan. There have been second graders to high school students. During the fiscal year 1988-89, I had 86 similar groups for a total of 5,085 people. The walks with those groups are fun, but the letters I get back are really special. I read those letters carefully, because from them I get ideas about what they really found of interest and the questions they asked let me know what I have to go into with more detail about.

A common statement in a number of letters, this year, was in reference to something I do with nearly every group and that is a period of very intent quiet listening. That time lasts only for thirty seconds or so, but even the high school students enjoy it. Depending upon the day and season, there may be a little or a lot going on in the Tall Timber, but no matter, because they remember it. They also remember and comment on sitting in the bunkhouse. With the electric lights off and the wood stove kicking out the BTU's, it is a time machine that has whisked them back in time.

My job may be to interpret nature and history, but my goal is to plant the seed of curiosity. What they most often comment on is how interesting they found the walk and that they will be back again to see what has happened in their absence.

Verse or Worse

By Joe Murphy
My Solitude

The big silvery moon is shining down
The frost like fields of sparkling diamonds shines
Beneath the trees the slanting shadows dance
As the wind plays its soft music in the pines

Beneath the moon it's almost light as day
The swimming beaver leaves streaks of silver in his wake
The cow moose comes for water with her calf
The loon sets up his wild clamor from the lake

From the sky I hear the cry of wild geese
As they pass in silhouette against the moon
Going south to spend the winter in the sun
Their cry, a warning that winter will come soon

From my cabin window the yellow lamplight gleams
My stove keeps my cabin snug and warm
My cache is filled with moose meat and supplies
My tall wood piles more insurance against the storm

Here I'll be snug and warm all winter
Though that cold north wind will blow
Sometimes to get outside my cabin door
I'll have to tunnel through the snow

At Christmas time old Trapper Tom will come
On snowshoes from his cabin on the creek
We'll share good food and a hoarded jug of wine
We'll talk and play cribbage for a week

We'll often speak of ladies we have known
Maybe ask ourselves why we lead this kind of life
But we know we'd never be content
Tied down by a family and a wife

For the still places would call us
And it holds us in its spell
Though we know the path we follow
May lead some day to hell

For just a little slip and fall
Could mean the timber wolves will gnaw our bones
But facing danger is the price
For a man in the great alone

But here where the north lights gleam and glitter
I've found peace and a joyful life
Free from the smog bound cities
With all their crime and strife

Here I'll live the days God allots me
In this quiet peace filled land
For in it's quiet beauty
I see the works of the Dear Lord's hand

... about your

If you receive supplemental security income (SSI) checks, you should tell Social Security whenever there's a change in your resources, income, or living arrangements. That way, we can be sure you receive the right amount in your check every month, and you can avoid the hardship caused by paying back overpayments.

Too often, SSI recipients fail to inform us about a change that should be reported and end up being overpaid. Since the law requires the Social Security Administration to recover the overpayment, the money is usually withheld from future checks, resulting in a hardship for many recipients.

You can avoid overpayments by promptly reporting any change to Social Security. You can get a booklet, called "What You Have to Know About SSI", that details all the things that should be reported. Call the Social Security office and request one — free of charge.

Examples of changes that commonly result in overpayments when not reported are:

- an increase in resources—the things you own, such as cash, checking or savings accounts, stocks, bonds, and certificates of deposit.

- an increase in income—both earned and unearned.

- if you get help with your living expenses.

- if you enter an institution.

- if you plan to leave the United States, even for a visit.

- if you move or someone moved into or out of your home.

- if someone who lives with you dies.

- if you or someone who lives with you has a baby or gets married, widowed, divorced, or separated.

- an improvement in your health, if you're getting checks because you are disabled or blind.

Report any change within ten days after the month it happens, by calling Social Security toll-free at 800-234-SSA.

The Traverse City office is located at 1111 E. Front St. Office hours are 9:00 - 4:30, Monday through Friday, except national holidays.

A representative is at the County Building in Grayling on the first and third Tuesday of each month, 10:30 - 2:00. There is no phone service at this location.
